From The Editor:

The drive to the Bates Nut Farm was a surreal experience for me. I was reminiscing of our own family outing to the farm many years ago as I was doing the full page of the event for the newsletter...*make that returning to my twilight zone...*As a matter of fact when Sundays' real time rural traffic came to a stand still, was I still hoping for a slow moving wagon full of pumpkins and kids enjoying a hay ride back to the farm...?

Many, if not most of today's families attending the Farm, Sunday, may never have had the real experience of being raised on a real working family farm. The Bates Farm is as good as any made for media commercial featuring home made candy, pie, hot dogs, cold drinks, petting animals, yada, yada, yada...The following is the real deal from my childhood, just as nostalgic, for me, anyway...

I was raised on a family farm of citrus and chickens. This is a story of the 40's coming out of the depression. Citrus was a large part of our family's income, Our grove was a Sunkist grove. We belonged to the Sunkist association. Picking the Naval and Valencia oranges requires two picking times. The Valencia oranges are a late season fruit. Oranges were harvested by itinerant pickers that I never made much of a connection with, at the time, as I was too young...

Years later, upon seeing the John Steinbeck movie, The Grapes of Wrath, it hit me...People like the Joads' would pick our citrus. I read Tortilla Flats in high school but never The Grapes of Wrath. I recall, distinctly that our pickers would arrive in old cars and trucks, just like the Joads' and pick citrus in season. The whole family would pick as they were paid so much per lug box of oranges, lemons, and limes. They were in our groves until the citrus was picked. Their cars and trucks were rusty

Hello Everybody.

It's countdown to year end, which is almost upon us. It seems like yesterday when we escaped isolation and went to Big Bear for Conclave 21. Since then, we have had many great rides, meetings, tech sessions and activities. It seems this year has flown by. I hope this message finds all of you doing well and planning for year end festivities, holiday adventures and plans for a happy new year.

In October we had a great turn out for British Car Day (BCD) and our members won many awards as follows:

• Big Healey – Early Model

First Place -Howard and Lynne Stark
Second Place -John Banales and John Jr.

• Big Healey Late Model

First Place Don Benke
Second Place- Dave Grundes

• Sprite

Second Place- Ed and Sandy Matheus

• Triumph

3rd In Class- John Lee III & Susana Davis

• Aston Martin

First in Class – Alex and Sandy Watt

• Founders Award

Richard and Ada Stephens won the coveted award

It was fun for all and it was a beautiful day to be at Spanish Landing. BCD was well planned, ran much smoother with parking and especially during awards presentation. Everybody seemed in good spirits, proud to show off their cars, be with their friends and mingle with other British car enthusiasts. I heard good reports about the food and I enjoyed my chicken curry. I am looking forward to attending Rolling British Car Day in April 2022. It is always a fun and interesting drive.

We had a great tech session assembling, installing and adjusted Clair's carburetors. The session helped to get her car back on the road and was a very successful and rewarding day. She is really enjoying herself now driving all around. Thank you to all who helped and thank you Claire for being a great hostess.

Many of us went on a great drive to Bates Nut Farm on October 17th. It brought back memories from 30 years ago when we last went with our children. I think everyone has had a past memory going to Bates and so many of us were drawn to this outing. We had a great turn out and ride up. Even though the traffic getting in was terrible, we still looked beyond that and had a really fun day. Please remember, anyone can write an article or few paragraphs that can make for interesting reading.

I look forward to seeing everyone at our November 10th meeting at Marie Calendars. Don will be running the elections. December 4th we will have our holiday party, which takes the place of our December club meeting. More information about our Holiday party will be provided in this newsletter. Please RSVP to Lynne and send payment A.S.A.P. as time is short. It will be a fun party.

Lou may be planning some other activities for us in November and December, so please keep your eye on the activity calendar and save the date of November 10th for our next club meeting and December 4th for our Holiday Party. See you soon.

Claire's Sprite Gets Fresh Carbs

Coffee, Bagels, and a Claire Coombs' 1967 Sprite MK III awaited SDAH members. They included Howard Stark, Sandy Leon, Lex Dunn, Lou Galper, and 'Doc' Bob McAllister.

Claire's Sprite carbs needed a rebuild and the crew was there to do it. The carbs were rebuilt and tuned. Then, the radiator hose needed replacing, along with a tired battery. Three trips to two different auto parts stores and the guys had everything needed to get Claire's Sprite back on Healey roads.

As Claire put it, "Owning an Austin-Healey is definitely a trip down the Rabbit Hole and a Worthy Adventure at that!! "

"I had no expectations that my car would be up and running. I am so-o-o Grateful! After gassing up and putting sufficient air in the tires.....I happily went for a drive on Sunday to Cabrillo and back via Harbor Dr. Weeeeeeeee!! Life is Good!!"

The gang at rest before getting to work...or maybe waiting for coffee and bagels before starting...

By Lynne Stark

Sunday October 17th the weather was great! A little cloudy and a little warmer than predicted. Our timing was perfect. As we were turning off our street, Warren was driving past so we drove up to the Mira Mesa park and ride together. We met up with new member Steve Suppa, Lou Galper, Dave Grundies, Tom and his daughter Janey Linnard, Lex Dunn, John Lee and Susana Davis, and Sandy and Lily Leon. Rick and Allie Snover made it as far as their local gas station before having to be towed home.

Once again Lou had a fun interesting route planned for us and off we went. This time we curved around Lake Wohlford and after about 30 minutes of scenic driving arrived at the Panera Bread in Escondido. Several of our north county members including Laura and Terrey Leyland, Ed and Sandy Matheus, Ron and Carolyn Richtmyer, and Mickey Pleasant and Laura were parked and waiting to join us. As we are lining up the cars who do we see, but long time members Craig and Sue Turner out for a Sunday coffee, not knowing we would be there! After happy greetings and hellos the cars were all lined up. What a great turn out and impressive group! 7 Big Healeys, 2 Sprites, a Triumph, a Morris Wagon, an SUV and a Camry. As we were pulling out to continue the ride, Laura and Terrey Leyland in their big Healey called out that they had a problem, their car wouldn't start. After a few of the guys, Howard, Lex and Sandy pushed, the car was jump started and off we went. A few minutes behind the main group with Laura and Terrey leading we enjoyed the second half of the ride.

The clouds were gone, the sun was out and the temperature was in the low 80's. This was all good until we turned onto a 2 lane road and found ourselves in a HUGE traffic jam on the road to Bates Nut Farm. After several minutes we saw Dave Grundies and Tom and Janey Linnard pulled over in the shade under a tree.

Sitting in traffic in the sun did Not make their cars happy. Not wanting to overheat and with traffic as far as you could see and then some, they decided to turn around and enjoy the ride home. Our Activities and drive leader Lou, as well as many of us stay in touch by cell phone on the drives in case someone makes a wrong turn, gets caught at a light or? A while later Laura called to say they had pulled over as well for a few minutes and the car wouldn't start again. (A new starter is probably in their future). Another call was made and Sandy and Lily Leon who not wanting to miss a fun drive had joined us in their SUV, got out of the line of traffic made their way back to where Laura and Terrey were gave them a push and got them started again. Both couples decided to turn back to go home. Laura and Terrey made it home safely without further problems, and Sandy and Lily were glad to be out of the endless line of cars.

We all finally got into Bates Nut Farm. Once inside we found Robert and Kathleen Reid waiting for us having come earlier in their big Healey and Ron and Sharon Burton in from Indio who had been camping not to far away and also joined us there. And last but not least Rick and Allie Snover who after seeing their Healey safely towed home, jumped in Allie's Mini Cooper, and caught up to us. Luckily we were all parked mostly together.

More Bates Nut Farm

Several members including Ron and Carolyn Rictmeyer and Ed and Sandy Matheus, came prepared with snacks and picnic lunches "made camp" by pulling out chairs and umbrellas, visiting and relaxing in the parking field.

Several members who came prepared with snacks and picnic lunches "made camp" by pulling out chairs and umbrellas, visiting and relaxing in the parking field.

The place was packed! Many of us decided to wade into the chaos to find restrooms, listen to music at the bandstand, stand in line for food, or brave the hordes in the huge store for candy, nuts, cold drinks and all kinds of snacks. I have to say the line at the fudge counter, where they had a dozen different kinds was well worth the wait. Homemade and delicious it satisfied my sweet tooth. Staying together as a large group was just not possible, but a few of us enjoyed feeding corn to the chickens, goats and sheep in the petting zoo and wandering through the rows of pumpkins. After a while we headed back to the cars for the ride home. As we were getting ready to leave members Kevin and Alejandra Schumacher with son AJ who happened to be visiting Bates spotted the cars and came over to say Hi.

The morning ride through north county and around Lake Wohlford was scenic, fun and easy. It would appear however that even though information received by phone from Bates Nut Farm indicated "there would be some traffic", the number of cars going to Bates from either direction was EPIC! Deciding to exit the opposite way we came in there was still 2 to 3 miles of cars still in line to enter. It seems everyone had to get there - be there that day. Even with the traffic and crowds a good day. ■ and they lived in them and tents while picking. One car had been a touring car and big enough that a mattress replaced the back seat. They would park their cars and trucks in between the rows of trees and would build cooking fires of orange tree pruning and coal briquettes in the smudge pots that my dad would use to keep the fruit from freezing as it got pretty cold in the lower parts of El Cajon Valley as the fruit was maturing. My folks treated them fairly and there was never a problem as in the movie. As a matter of fact, one of the women needed some medical attention and my mom took her up to the house and called our family doctor for her. There is no question that it was a desperate time for some, but it really wasn't easy time for any...

Actually, in many respects my family was not too many notches above the Joads, as this was the tail end of the depression. We did live on, and own, our farm. And we did eat a lot of chicken and home made bread. And we had two milk cows, Susie and Erma. Actually, we lived pretty good for the times. My mom baked deep dish cottage cheese custard cake with a graham cracker and brown sugar crust with plenty of real butter, courtesy Susie and Erma, and later Vicie... that was out of this world...We did have patches on our pants and wear home made shirts that my grandmother made. And which I hated. She would make the collars like girls blouses not like boys shirts, which are difficult to sew....And little ingrate that I was, I knew the difference, and it bothered me. Especially as I would have to wear that damn shirt on special occasions... And everyone would comment on how cute the shirts looked on us...ugg...

Back to the Joads?... One of the migrant pickers families' had a son who was about four or five years older than Bill and I. I was between five and six at the time. And he was what we would now call a bully...I would have called him something else, but I was still learning to swear. One day he hit me for some reason. Not really hard, but I was too small to hit him back. It may have been accidentally in play. But I took it personally...because he laughed as it was a joke to him.

Next to the long chicken brooder barn and work shop, there was a shed, at right angle to the brooder barn that had room for three cars. The shed and barn made a large L shape. We had a 1935 Ford V8 sedan, a Fordson tractor and old Model A truck. Next to the truck, in a corner of the shed was an old rusty double barrel hammer shot gun with one broken hammer. The gun could not shoot, but the bully didn't know that. So I grabbed the shotgun and proceeded to chase the jerk down between the rows of orange trees. I was doing my best, cussing him out as I was learning to swear pretty good, by now from listening to some of my dad's friends when they would meet at Tom King's Feed Store or WD Halls in the black smiths shop...He was screaming at the top of his lungs... His dad heard him screaming and saw me with the shotgun. He grabbed me and the gun and took me up to the house to mom. I thought I was in real trouble but nothing happened, to my relief, as mom usually meted out punishment. I can now imagine my dad laughing in the evening when my mom told him at adult supper, after we kids were in bed...

About this time, Pearl Harbor had already been bombed and the U.S. Army was bivouaced down below the house adjacent to the lemon and lime groves. They actually moved in where the WPA, CCC camp had been before the war. The CCC boys had built a large drainage ditch diagonally across the about sixty acre ranch property with cobble stones that people still find in their yards from La Mesa up through Po-way today.

These smooth round polished stones that people dig up in their gardens and flower beds are actually called glacial till. They are left over from the last ice age that covered much of this part of the United States, about twenty five thousand years or more ago. As the glaciers melted, the round rock till was at the bottom of the glacier and was polished smooth as the glacier moved. Till is a giant monument to climate change that we hear so much about. The till is the final resting place of the glacier that ended in San Diego. And we survived it and without taxes too...

Returning to our army camp... I would estimate the total camp was not large, perhaps forty or fifty soldiers. They slept in military tents. My favorite spot was the camp kitchen. The cook would bake bread for the soldiers mess. He was a kindly guy, who greeted Bill and I, and would give us a slice of fresh baked bread with butter. Looking back, I am guessing they were placed strategically, after the war started, to protect the homeland. Many people thought the invasion of Hawaii would reach the west coast of America. There were three round machine gun dugouts that were inter connected with trenches at least five or more feet deep edged with sand bags. The dugouts had a raised earth circle in the center with a wood platform for machine guns. The ammunition cans were sometimes kept in the circular dugouts. The machine guns were kept where they could be kept away from my brother Bill and I, ...because you can only imagine what that would lead to, right?...And that's how it was on our farm...through five and six year old eyes...
Happy Thanksgiving...Warren
